Major Headlines

Oil jumps as Middle East supply concerns persist amid shipping attacks

Oil prices rose more than 5% on Thursday on persistent worries about supply from the Middle East amid an increase in attacks on shipping in the Gulf and the Strait of Hormuz, while the US cut output as a hurricane menaced offshore production.

Gold Keeps Hitting the 4H FVG Ceiling: Can the $4,112 Floor Survive?

Yesterday, gold swept below the 4,112 support and dropped to about 4,066, then bounced back quickly. That kind of recovery usually means sellers got trapped, and it gave buyers a real boost. The bounce hasn't gone far, though. Price climbed to about 4,143, entered the 4H FVG between 4,127 and 4,135, and got rejected. It has now been turned away from that zone twice in a row, and the latest 4H candle is leaning back toward support.

U.S. stock futures fall amid bond market strains, oil price surge

U.S. stock futures edged lower on Thursday, as concerns around the health of global bond markets were driven by rising energy prices and a reported wave of debt-fueled artificial intelligence financing arrangements. By 07:01 ET (11:01 GMT), the Dow futures contract had fallen by 485 points, or 0.9%, S&P 500 futures had declined by 44 points, or 0.6%, and Nasdaq 100 futures had dipped by 262 points, or 0.8%.

USD/JPY Price Forecast: 20-day EMA provides cushion near 157.55

The Japanese Yen (JPY) gives back its early gains and turns slightly negative against the US Dollar (USD) during the early European trading session on Thursday. As of writing, the USD/JPY pair is up 0.13% to near 158.23. The Asia-Pacific currency falls back even as Japan's Current Account data for August has come in stronger than expected. The Current Account data shows that the surplus increased to 4,062 billion yen in August, beating 3,194 billion yen estimates, and the prior release of 2,988 billion.

EUR/USD Price Forecast: Holds below 1.1200, bearish tone prevails amid oversold conditions

The EUR/USD pair loses ground to near 1.1195 during the early European trading hours on Thursday. France's fiscal concerns continue to drag the Euro (EUR) lower against the US Dollar (USD). The US weekly Initial Jobless Claims report and the Fedspeak will be in the spotlight later on Thursday.
